Mr. Ryan Tam, Director of Planning & Development, presented the staff report provided in the board packet. He introduced Andrew Kamikawa, Gentry Homes, Ltd., to present the analyses and requested approval for Increment 3 of the Ka'ulu by Gentry reserve housing unit pricing.

Member Evans asked what may be the reasons why the Ka'ulu reserved housing units are not as attractive to potential buyers, compared to other units nearby that are selling more rapidly. She also asked why Gentry did not lower the price for the reserved housing units to further incentivize potential buyers.

Mr. Kamikawa theorized that the payment of shared equity may be the main deterrent. He answered Gentry is unable to lower the reserved housing unit prices due to the rising costs of labor and materials, but that the market unit prices were raised to increase the cost differential.

Vice Chair Ishii asked how Gentry plans to improve their reserved housing incentives package, since it has been a concern since inception. He also asked why there are more 3-bedroom units than 2-bedroom units, and if that may be a factor in buyers' decisions.

Mr. Kamikawa answered that Gentry has offered window coverings and 3-4% credit incentives that may be used to lower the buyer's loan rates and closing costs. He stated that the sales team has not come to a clear conclusion regarding bedroom offerings, but stated that it would be difficult to redesign the product at this point.

Member Streitz asked for percentages of sold markets units in Increments 1 and 2.

Mr. Kamikawa answered that he can provide the numbers as he did not have it on hand. He noted that it is below 100%, but higher than that of reserved housing.

Member Streitz asked why Gentry could not further decrease the reserved housing unit prices, as the loss in potential revenue would be captured in the increase of market unit prices. He asked what features were included in the stated square footage of each unit.

Mr. Kamikawa answered that the prices are set to cover cost increases. The stated square footages only account for interior floor area, not the floor area of the lanai and garage. He clarified the price differential between market and reserved housing pricing.

Member Streitz asked for further details about the access points to the project, to which Mr. Kamikawa pointed out on the provided phasing map.

Member Gordner wondered how subsequent increments would be priced, as the possibility of continuing interest rate increases could imply a considerable factor. He also asked how the federal tariffs are affecting their plans for future increments.

Mr. Kamikawa answered that they have not received word of any direct impacts, but are remaining cautious by communicating with their suppliers and subcontractors.

Secretary Lidstone asked when the access point on Saratoga Avenue will be completed.

Mr. Kamikawa answered that it is dependent on Hunt, the developers of the surrounding public roadways. Mr. Quentin Machida, Gentry President, stated that there is no definite date yet at this time.

Member Evans commended Gentry on developing three-bedroom units to accommodate growing families. She also asked if the HCDA board and staff would consider revising the restrictions in the future, in the event that the program cannot achieve its goals?

Mr. Nakamoto encouraged Gentry to lower the price of the reserved housing units as a strategy to increase sales, before requesting approval for alternative solutions.

Chair Higa concurred with Member Evans' suggestion to consider revising the reserved housing requirements. He advised that Gentry should provide detailed sales data so that the HCDA staff may make informed decisions when considering such revisions.

There were no further comments or questions from the board members.
